Grade 3 Reading Comprehension Worksheet

Moggy the Mouser
By Helen Lawson

Read the story below.

Moggy was an old cat who knew many things. Every day, he liked to lie on the leaves under the gum tree, "I know more about mice than any cat, anywhere," Moggy told himself. Moggy was lying in his favourite spot, and keeping a look out for gum nuts, which fell from the branches over his head. Sometimes, he would pretend a gumnut was a mouse. When a gumnut landed near his nose, he would quickly put a paw on it. "I've caught another one," Moggy would say to himself. All this time, a little mouse had been watching he wanted to get past this cat and go home. Feeling safe, he crept out from his hiding place and started on his journey. Slowly, softly, and closer he moved. There he was, right next to Moggy's nose. Then, snap went a gumnut over the mouse's head. Out went Moggy's paw. He was so surprised when he saw what he had caught that he lifted his paw straight off. And the mouse, who could hardly believe his luck, dashed away faster. For many days after, Moggy waited for another mouse to fall from the tree and land right in front of his nose. But it never did.
